ABOUT ME

As a software developer, I have already passed through fundamental front-end concepts using HTML, CSS, and JavaScript. However, my current focus is on back-end development with the platform .NET. but I'm also studying concepts of Linux OS, computer architectures, and internet protocols.

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Pokedex

- During this project, I used HTML, CSS, and vanilla JavaScript. This page was created with the concept of mobile-first, so I designed everything for mobile devices and then completed the styling for other types of equipment. I employed media queries to make my page responsive to all types of devices and used JavaScript to both consume the PokeAPI and add dynamic content for the Pokémon.

Portfolio

- I used only HTML and CSS to create this page. This project was created to consolidate the concepts that I acquired on my first steps in web development and to share which courses that I did.
